

Animal Crossing

Overview

The website was developed to facilitate the download of the Animal Crossing game. As an avid gamer with a particular fondness for Animal Crossing, I often felt disappointed by its exclusivity to the Nintendo platform. Motivated by the desire to make this game accessible on personal computers, I designed this Animal Crossing website. The site comprises three pages: a main page, a game introduction page, and an event page.

Pages

Main page	This page features a download button, a brief introduction to the game, a selection of game images, and character visuals.
Game introduction page	This page provides an overview of the game's appearance and style. It is designed to showcase the primary characters and a selection of villager characters.
Event page	This page provides details about various in-game events, offering insights into the activities available within the game.

Colour Palette

The website was thoughtfully designed with a vibrant colour palette to create an engaging and visually appealing experience, ensuring it remains lively and captivating for users. The primary colours incorporated:

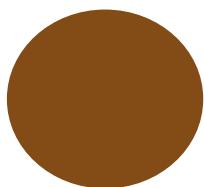

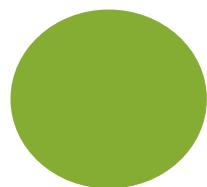

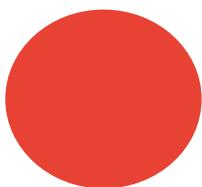

#e84234

#FFCA2

#85ac33

#834B16

The main content area is titled "Event" in a large, bold, yellow font. It features four cards, each representing a different event:

- New Year Party (Yellow card): Shows a festive scene with characters in winter clothing. Text below says "Celebrate 2025 New Year! ~ Happy New Year ~".
- Christmas Party (Green card): Shows characters in Santa hats and reindeer antlers. Text below says "Celebrate 2024 Christmas! ~ Merry Christmas ~".
- Fishing Competition (Blue card): Shows a bear character fishing on a beach. Text below says "Join 2024 Fishing Competition! ~ Win the prize ~".
- Happy Halloween (Pink card): Shows a character in a witch costume standing in a autumn-themed environment with pumpkins. Text below says "Collect Halloween Items! Get as many as you want!".

Below the cards is a horizontal navigation bar with arrows and numbers (1, 2, 3, 4) indicating a paginated view. This is labeled as the "Events: Scrolled up when paging button is clicked".

At the bottom of the page is a yellow footer bar with links: "About our site", "Accessibility", "Terms & conditions", and "Privacy statement". It also features the "Animal Crossing" logo and social media icons for YouTube, Instagram, Facebook, Reddit, and Twitter. This is labeled as the "Footer".
